

VIRTUOSANT

Virtuosant Technology, Inc. Announces Reseller Agreement with IBM

Virtuosant is now an IBM Software and Hardware Reseller.

Atlanta, GA. --Jul. 28, 2009—Virtuosant Technology, Inc. today announced that it has been accepted as an IBM software and hardware reseller.

“IBM is selective in who it will allow to sell its hardware and software and we are proud to have received this designation” said Virtuosant Chief Executive Officer David Lee. He continued, “This will allow us to serve our customers in an end-to-end capacity with some of the best software and hardware in the world.”

By Virtuosant providing the aggregation of disparate content and applications into one interface, organizations save time and reduce mistakes when sharing content through an approval workflow that could otherwise cause system downtime. If a healthcare organization has weak security associated with multiple users or spends too much time finding necessary information and delivering it to multiple desktops, Virtuosant’s technology brings a cost effective and rapidly delivered solution. This software offering presents an excellent opportunity for those looking to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of their organization through a consolidate application/information interface along with content and management.

About Virtuosant Technology:

Virtuosant produces innovative portal-based software for small to medium size healthcare organizations that help solve critical business issues through a timely and low cost approach. An advanced IBM Business Partner, Virtuosant is headquartered in Atlanta, GA.

www.Virtuosant.com